Intuitive tool that brings together all telemetry settings under a singular interface to help Windows 10 and 11 users better manage their privacy. Telemetry is becoming an increasingly relevant topic these days. User data is valuable, and a growing number of companies have moved forward to maximize their profits by collecting as much data as they can. While the “out of sight, out of mind” way this is handled makes some not mind it as much, it’s just as understandable why others would choose to opt out of any kind of telemetry.
